G. BAILEY, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR; JOHN G. WHITTIER, CORRESPONDING EDITOR.

VOL. XIII.

WASHINGTON, D. C., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1859.

No. 675.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

winding, terrace-bordered Cornice road. Past that any change now would be comparative supshine, and especially the change she fist tered herself of, the last change of all in this tered herself of, the last change of all in this tered herself of, the last change of all in this tered herself of, the last change of all in this was the woman who it apart on the deck of the steamer, as she drear rapidly in towards Genon. One thought, or sope, one dream, only filled her breast, and it is do something like tears in her dry eyes: si sees going

God keeps his holy inveteries
Just on the outside of man's dream!
In dispason s ow, we think
To hear their pinions rise and sink.
While they float pure beneath His eyes, Lise swams adown a stream.

et us look at this woman's story. Perchance may enlighten us respecting some elements its sequel, in which resides our own story, d, as such, need not to be regarded as an epi at away, and years slipped by. His brother withdrawn from his father's business—a faulter, it was whispered—and had gone to Venite a noi parler, saint noi niega" Margaret Lloyd was the daughter of a Prossor in the College which gave Beale Lloyd is Genova-Genova la Superba!" egree. She was just entering a little so-at the age of sixteen, when she and Lloyd or the first time, he being a student. Mara child of the Superb!

ocent, with deep loving eyes, and a soul passion, truth, and honesty. Well, they Lloyd was the man of the College, some-rild, and inclined to frolic, it was whispered, teeedingly handsome, and very popular, with his fellow-students and the "Facul-with his fellow-students and the sound have been a sound his passion, truth, and honesty. Well, they that woos you with the splender of its sunshine; palaces, gardens, terraces, grow into wiew; and now the city, the rival Gueen of mediaval commerce, the matronly R xana to the glittering lascivious Statira, who i Queen of the coast expands into a broad page bay, that woos you with the splender of its sunshine; palaces, gardens, terraces, grow into wiew; and now the city, the rival Gueen of the gardens, terraces, grow into wiew; and now the city, the rival Gueen of the gardens, terraces, grow into wiew; and now the city, the rival Gueen of the gardens, terraces, grow into wiew; and now the city, the rival Gueen of the gardens, terraces, grow into wiew; and now the city, the rival Gueen of the gardens, terraces, grow into wiew; and now the city, the rival Gueen of the gardens, terraces, grow into wiew; and now the city, the rival Gueen of the gardens, terraces, grow into wiew; and now the city, the rival Gueen of the gardens, terraces, grow into wiew; and now the city, the rival Gueen of the gardens, terraces, grow into wiew; and now the city, the rival Gueen of the gardens, the -for he had a great reputation for talent scholarship, promised to stand prominent-ward in the profession he had elected for, withal, could affect that frank, liberal, debnanner, which is a guaranty of ad- tance, and lifting themselves most roys y above s with one's associates. He was a quick, mate man, fiery and proud, with a brilstyle and a genuine ardor of character.
such, he subdued the little girl of sixeart, soul, mind, so that she came to to embrace the world that worships them for im her god, and worshipped him. Selfish their beauty. Such a pure glancing bay, so ght be, and haughty, but he was not un-loss at start, nor dishonest; and so, when covered the little flower's yearning towards love; and they formed between them an engagement to marry, as soon as he become a graduate. But his father, the and ruffled old Federalist, somehow came of all the Lloyds and Van Coppernaels of all the Lloyds and Van Coppernaels of the crescent hills, the fair smiling blue of the crescent hills, the fair smiling blue of beaven becomes a such common channels.

heaven her canopy and purple! that is without an e! who ever hat thing? 'tis altogether prepose the harbor who exists altogether prepose the harbor who within the moles into the harbor, where are clustered feluccas of Smyrna, brigs of Baltic, steamers of South ampton, schooners of Chesapeake, ships from the four quarters of the earth—not so many as such a thing? 'tis altogether prepos-and so, he ordered his son to break Beale Lloyd's prideful selfishness to be mimons. He went to the Professor, and to marry his daughter out of hand. He age, he said, and had property enough individual right to provide for their modeds. Alas, there was pride even in a without the e, and, as fathers are very do, Professor John Brown thought only pride—not at all his daughter's suffering He had received an insulting letter from dipatrician, and so he forbade the son must need to be and the lions of St. Mark; into which, the other day of this historic age, steamed storming the ships of France, her keen-eyed eagle plumed for some mysterious flight of issue still unknown, and all Genoa crowned them; into this proud harbor went the lithe and handsome steamer, sending up a column of black smoke as its offering to Hermes, God of Commerce, and moored long-side the quart.

so, made it cruel. Then Beale Lloyd, anger and his wounded pride, quite forbitle girl who was pining for him, and sobbing out his name on her pillow. He Genova la Superba.

parts unknown. The old men was feeble, and

A PALACE IN GENOA.

BY EDWARD SPENCER.

VI

The Marseilles Steamer.

"Soffrice Tao re."

The steamer from Marseilles, with its motley throng of passengers, and still more motley crew, has passed Nice, and is now skirting the base of the maritime Alps, where shine, above, the white convents and villas, and at their feet, the white convents and villas, and at their feet, soning, not looking beyond, only contemplating where the sea kisses the shore, the beautiful, its object. It was indeed that

Had he then required her to become his mis-tress, she would have yielded, I think, though she would have died, after. But he was a just and trees, like some colony of rocks about an ivy tower; past noble bays, where the light carcas; past ruined turrets, against which, in the old time, Algerine corsairs have pattered their brazen shot; past village chapels, from whose campaniles the bell-masic came softly over the waters, to meet them with a word of peace; past tumbling, racing torrents, brawlingly flinging themselves down from the green illisides; past vineyards, and chestnut forests, and mulberry plantations, and orange groves, and olive yards, and ensure plantations, and orange groves, murnauring and yearning for the land beyond the waves, where the sun is their own, their own the green of the father and their friend; past all these, and very mear to them at times, glides en the steamer, making her rapid way towards Genoa the Sun is man, in his own inaptered and shot, may for esentiment of attention to certain spots which fleaves upon to effect the mark of attention to certain spots which fleaves proposed the mark of attention to certain spots which fleaves upon to determ the facility of attention to certain spots which fleaves upon to distance and a state of attention to certain spots which fleaves upon to distance and a state of attention to certain spots which fleaves upon to distance and a state of attention to certain spots which fleaves upon to eliminate and in the proposal with a cordial time days in Genea, and in those time gave him an excessive consciousness of, attention to certain spots which fleaves, these and in the sactually ceased to cut a pigeon-wing more than ten times a day. He has been to the open, but a days has actually ceased to cut a pigeon-wing more than ten times a day. He has been to the open, but a days has actually ceased to cut a pigeon-wing more than ten times a day. He has been to the other wing more than ten times a day. He has been to the other wing more than ten times a day. He has been to the other wing more than ten times a day. He has a cut all the has had a pleasant of the city. He has been to the other some colony of rooks about an man, in his own hard fashion, and so he resolved making her rapid way towards Genoa the Superb.

She swore the oath, and fied by night with him from her father's house. They were married under the name of Beale, and removed to a quiet town near New York, where he could bright, and the travellers seem to be doing their best towards the enjoyment of the moment. Not with the light Frenchman, however, gayly whistling "Malbrook," nor with the bright whistling "Malbrook," nor with the bright towards the enjoyment of the moment.

She swore the oath, and fied by night with him from renewing and removed to a quiet town near New York, where he could visit her conveniently, and yet a paid any éclair-cissement. This flight broke completely the proud heart of John Brown with ait an e. He thought his daughter had fallen as Lloyd interpretation. The new renewal and removed to a quiet town near New York, where he could visit her conveniently, and yet a paid any éclair town near New York, where he could visit her conveniently, and yet a paid any éclair town near New York, where he could visit her conveniently, and yet a paid any éclair town near New York, where he could visit her conveniently, and yet a paid any éclair town near New York, where he could visit her conveniently, and yet a paid any éclair town near New York, where he could visit her conveniently, and yet a paid town near New York, where he could visit her conveniently, and yet a paid town near New York, where he could visit her conveniently and yet a paid town near New York, where he could drew a knife upon him, and his self-respect prevents him from renewing acquaintance with such dangerous sport. If he walks on the street, the children yeif "No'm, not yit. Boss got a letter from' em, and telled me they was to be here this week sometime, but I hasn't seen nothin' of 'em yet, though the provide he should think. He new a knife upon him, and his self-respect prevents him from renewing acquaintance with such dangerous sport. If he walks on the such dangerous sport. If he walks on the such dangerous sport. If he wal whistling "Malbrook," nor with the brighteyed Genoese, humming an air from Rossini; nor with the artist sketching the sailor group about the mast; nor with the pale English girl, who is longing for the mild air of Flormorse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child to see the dying
morse, took mother and child t our concern. A single passenger man, and told him all. But the ernelty was mole of the harbor to telegraph the approach of dack, who sits apart there, communing with up in his bed, dying as he was, this proud and Why, then, this so intense lugubriousness of many-colored scene, must go perforce untouched. A lady dressed in black, with bent form, stooping shoulders, and care-worn, haggard features, that shock you like the white the same of the sunshine to the sunshine that sanshine in which invalids love to die—is spite of this money, and of his dignity as valet de chambre? In spite also of mora and the theatre—the pretty harbor and the dainty sweetmeats—in spite, finally, of this grand Pulgers Circumstance. their sight, he yielded to a presence still more lessee and occupant he is the most prominent awful, fell back, gasped, and died. And, with that curse flung over her like a participator of it. It is not the face of a lessee and occupant he is the most prominent outward and visible sign? It cannot be his that curse flung over her like a participator of it. It is not the face of a lessee and occupant he is the most prominent outward and visible sign? It cannot be his separation from Molly, for he is used to that, and, moreover, has very little talent for domestic prominent outward and visible sign? It cannot be his separation from Molly, for he is used to that, and, moreover, has very little talent for domestic prominent outward and visible sign?

been hers. She had known more than forty years of life, more than trends it all did not object. And, wit a, her unstantificant ray of sumshine, while love had begin ficant ray of sumshine, while love had been palm-tree. But she was near the end now, she told herself with and come to lean upon her, and sum to one to har upon her, and sum to until his crime had begun, it for months have been sup-near the end now, she told herself with and come to lean upon her, and lear to deer to do now, she told herself with and come to lean upon her, and the hard life with her at all. But as knd done to lean upon her, and the hard life with her at all. But as knd done to lean upon her, and the loving single content on the hard life with her at all. But as knd done to lean upon her, and the loving single done to leave to have the larger one, with very sharp points. But I would not until his crime had begun, it would not until his crime had begun, to know him in Genoa—is there, and you not hoping, but call wherever that end might come; it would not, shock her. So much of shadow he comparative these days of earthquake s region of the loving single more for cromment than use, as I have call had known, so much of dungeon endured.

The whole universe, all nature, both animate show forth the power, the wisher the loving sindeness of God. All nature sings his praise, and the glad anthems within the palace; and he is exceedingly bad company for any poor darkey having a soil, being fond of the sunshine, and prone to show his white tasth is allowed. The world of our finer feelings:

The whole universe, all nature, both animate down, and the loving sindeness of God. All nature sings his praise, and the glad anthems within the palace; and he is exceedingly bad company for any poor darkey having a soil, being fond of the sunshine, and prone to show his white tasth is allowed. The world of our finer feelings:

The whole universe, all nature, both animate himself into one with the main and the singulation of the main that the will one of the been until then utterly without sur hine.

who have a right to welcome the same and bless the messenger.

When the man pleases and the woman loves, it is easy to rehearse, in saddest tracedy of fact, the old time union of Jove and Semele. The god comes in his splendor, and the poor woman, god comes in his splendor, and the poor woman, made blind forever, must enceforth pursue a desolate and sunless pathesis and some what upon the frame work was Mrs.

Somewhat upon the frame work was Mrs.

Somewhat upon the frame work was Mrs.

Beale Lloyd's marrillife built up. Fully so Beale Lloyd's marrillife built up. Fully so sunless it was, an so desolate. Is it possible sunless it was, an so able to find consolation in that, withal, she cas able to find consolation in that, withal, she cas able to find consolation in that, withal, she cas able to find consolation in that, withal, she cas able to find consolation in that, withal, she cas able to find consolation in that, withal, she can all indeed I think sunless it was, an as able to find consolation in that, withal, she as able to find consolation in that, withal, she as able to find consolation in that, withal, she as able to find consolation in that, withal, she as able to find consolation in that, withal, she as able to find consolation in that, withal, she as able to find consolation in that, withal, she as able to find consolation in that, withal, she as able to find consolation in that, withal, she as able to find consolation in that, withal, she as able to find consolation in that, withal, she as able to find consolation in that, withal, she as able to find consolation in that, withal, she as able to find consolation in that, withal, she as able to find consolation in that, withal, she as able to find consolation in that, withal, she as able to find consolation in that, withal, she as able to find consolation in that, withal, she as a stir within the thought because it is in that of the part.

Something creates a stir within the throught because it is in the part of the part o longer; he is gazing like the rest.
"What do they say?" asks Mr. Beale, starting to her feet, enger, tremblir; "what do they mean?" The cry of mingled voices grow.

"Genes — Genua — Genova — Geno palaces"_____ The bright-eyed Genoese, swelling ith pride and love, cured of his nostalgia, has turns to her, and waves his hand: "

In America, he is but a six-penn vending oranges and figs; here, he a felloucitizen of Andrea Doria, a son of the Proud-

Yes, it is Genoa.

The coast expands into a broad have bay

"Ab, that such beauty, varying in the light Of awing nature, cannot be postrayed.

By words, nor by the pencil's silent skill!"

"It lies there on the shore like the blenched skeleton of him to regard these the fit and proper associates all its horror to itself, vindictively compels you to be participator of it. It is not the face of a ghastly self tormentor, neither, but of one long time tortured, racked, imprisoned, for the sake of some heroic thing she has done, some grand faith, some matchless love, some eternal, undisturbed fidelity. And it is this idea of bitter and the suffering, all undeserved, which shocks us, not suffering all undeserved and that is, simply because within that palace ticity, at the best. No; there is another cause, and that is, simply because within that palace ticity, at the be cannot understand—not being exactly afraid of Of many a long-departed hour" it, but desiring to be out of the sphere of its inAnd how often, during our lonely walks, do we the nut desiring to be out of the sphere of its in-fluence; since, being once comprehended, it may turn out something very terrible indeed. Especially is this our case with respect to shadow-mysteries — mysteries, namely, that come between us and enlightenment with the manifest and palpable effect of a cloud, which, whether it contain lightning and thunder or not, fairs not in either case to make all around us fairs not in either case to make all around us darker than it was previous to the cloud's coming. Now, this was George's case, very exactly. He could not by any means comprehend the man whom he had yet saved. Indeed, it is probable that this man could not understand himself. For two months he had been going inward, so to speak, digging away at his own grief, toying with it, and curiously speculating upon its form and substance, color and dimensions. He had ceased to view himself in the light of outside laws, had refused to measure sions. He had ceased to view himself in the light of outside laws, had refused to measure himself by other standards, had declined to associate or have intercourse of any kind with men, and so he had insensibly come to invest his crime with a species of metaphysical covering, had clad it in garments not belonging to it, had set it up before him en grande tenue, and was now prepared to worship it, as the Yezid worships his devil, with a curiously-blended sense of shuddering horror and awful reverence—like the Oboe man before a Fetiche, which his morbid, dark, selfish brain has taught him to hedge about with terrifying and destructive attributes.

He had ceased to view himself in the light of outside laws, had refused to measure himself by other standards, had declined to associate or have intercourse of any kind with and infinite goodness.

Why, then, should we not study the habits and history of every class of the animal king. dom, however insignificant they may appear to the mere casual observer?

The gopher is another species of the burrowing animal. He is not, however, near so large as the prairie dog, being only about three times as large as the mole, the despoiler of our gardens and infinite goodness.

Why, then, should we not study the habits and history of every class of the animal king. The mere casual observer?

The gopher is another species of the burrowing animal. He is not, however, near so large as the prairie dog, being only about three times as large as the mole, the despoiler of our gardens and infinite goodness.

ways, and shuddered. The merest child will also domestic residence, and is as exclusive and as an direct wails of a prison, though all anconacious of their meaning and intention; and here was this merry lover of the sun and the song, compelled to behold his patron as it were locked close in a dungeon, as deeply secret as the heart of the great pyramid, reached by any possible ray of sunlight, unapproached by any possible ray of sunlight, and possible ray of sunlight, and the sun possible ray of sunlight and the

George is in quite a pitiable way indeed, and has wofully receded from that sleek, laughing darkey, who sailed two months since out of New York. He has fallen victim to his own

But there may be a change, for the Sema-phore indicates that the Marseilles steamer is at hand, and George's face brightens with an unwonted smile of hope as he hurries towards

"Yes'm. Here, B'teester, you stan' by dese trunks till dey goes into de custom-house. Come ing the box beside the driver, gave the signal to move on. And Mrs. Beale, as they threaded their slow way across the triangular piazza fronting on the quay, could not prevent her in-

INKLINGS FROM THE FRONTIER:

LIFE ON THE PLAINS AND ADVENTURES IN

Some recollection dear is stirt d Of many a long-departed hour"

And here on the vast plains, where big-mouthed

Gospel teachings, and ribald songs than hymns of praise, the lover of Nature and Nature's God realizes the sentiment of the poet who sang-"Were I in churchle-s solitudes remaining,
Far from all voice of teachers and divines,

Priests, sermons, shrines ? " The little animals - those ingenious little reatures whom God seems to have peculiarly endowed-also preach sermons of His wisdon as large as the mole, the despoiler of our gardeus and strawberry beds; and has none of his (the prairie dog's) habits, excepting he lives in communities, and burrows in the earth. The gopher chooses light sandy soil for the site of ed George felt the shadow flinging across his ways, and shuddered. The merest child will shudder at contact with the bars and bolts and domestic residence, and is as exclusive and as frear walls of a prison, though all unconscious jealous of the curious eye as John Chinaman

As far as my own personal researches have extended in the mysteries of the gopher fun-ily, I have failed to discover that they possess any Democratic proclivities, excepting that they are undermining in their manœuvres, and prefer darkness to light; at least, that the secret machinery of their governmental policy is kept hidden.

s kep: hidden.

The great red aut, who builds those quaint byramidal-shaped towers out of such pretty ittle crystals and many-colored little pebbles. not prove uninteresting. I have seen ant bills, or rather spires, built by this species, from two to three feet high, and have heard of their measurese conical spires constitutes a most wonderall taste, artistic eye, and appreciation of the beautiful, these little fellows must have! They are as clean and neat as the most tidy house-kept as clean and smooth as the floor of a New Eagland kitchen; from the neat circle, in every direction, diverge hundreds of tiny smooth and cleanly-kept roads, along which countless num-

It is my opinion that these examples of industry, perfect management, and economy, have a monarchical form of government, and, like the bee, have a king or queen.

During the summer they "put up" their winter's food, which consists of other insects and so forth, which they doubtless have some and been greatly amused and interested in their sagacity. I have seen two or three of them capture a grasshopper by stratagem, and worry him by their indefatigable courage and perseverance, intil they received sufficient reinforcement to slay their prey and tear it to pieces, which they store away in their commissary. Often have I carried them a quantity of sugar and bread crumbs, just for the pleasure of seeing the little fellows waddle off with loads five times their

After riding hard on a hot day, the horse blankets become perfectly saturated with sweat, and it requires the greatest care to prevent them from being fly-blown. If, however, in spite of every precaution, they do get fly-blown, carry them to the ants, and they will clean them of every embryo insect.

dignified air, and neither hops nor jumps. He the more fertile is the ground."

The amazing yield of Indian corn siesta, when a horned-frog came walking in, panting with heat and fatigue, and, insisted upon refreshing himself in the cool shade, and occupying a portion of my couch. I repeatedly drove him away, but he invariably returned, with such a pleading look in his mild eyes, as though, if he could only speak, he would beg permission to shelter himself from the scorching rays of the sun, and rest his little body for a while. My heart warmed towards him, and I disturbed him no more. I soon fell into a siumber, and when I awoke, I found that my little companion had followed my example, and was much diverted at his sleeping posture. up under his breast. I concluded that the lit-tle fellow might be hungry as well as weary, and procured some crumbs of bread, which I offered him, but he only tasted of them. I next tried him with sugar, and soon ascertained that he had a sweet tooth. Pouring some molasses on a piece of paper, which I set before him, he was considerably puzzled to get as it. Walking around several times, he finally got his foot in it. Then he stopped short, held up his besmeared foot before him, and regarded it in the bers of his queer tribs as pets; I would send you one by mail, if it were not for having to closely imprison him for some time in a little box, and submit him to the care of so many Administration P. M.'s., who might imagine said box to contain doubloons. Three different times within the present year bave I attempted to send small sums of money by mail to the States, and each time has the money failed to reach its destination. I do not wish to wrongfully accuse Government officials of dishonesty. The money may have been taken by mail robbers. Has anybody heard of depredations having been committed on the Western mails?

This camp at Red Rock Canon is one that I have described in one of my earlier "Inklings." We are again on the road we went out. As it was nearly five hours till sunset, after the tents We are again on the road we went out. As it was nearly five hours till sunset, after the tents were pitched, I shouldered my rifle and walked out, bending my steps down the country. I was surprised to find that the farther I walked the more the Canon expanded, until finally, after having travelled several miles, I found myself in a wide valley in the midst of a dense forest of majestic trees, composed of almost every variety to be found in this Southwestern country. Oh, what a grand and noble forest and to mine, and great tears were chasing each other down her cheeks. Her look was steadset about repairing damages to the best of my surgical ability. I had some lint, linen, and healing-salve, with me. I always carry these articles, they come so handy in case of accident. I washed the wound with cold water, tained a few splinters from a shivered tree hard by, and proceeded to bind up the wound in very good style. I then set the poor fawn on her feet. She did not attempt to run, but stood there trembling, and looking very thankful, while I walked off heart-sick at my own bloody work on the real little in the set was the last dog watch, the time between six and eight work on the real little in the set was the last dog watch, the time between six and eight o'clock, and several of the watch who ought to work on the poor little innocent. without any game. But I did not tell "our mess" of my affecting adventure, lest they should laugh at what they would be pleased to term my chicken heartedness.

But here close my rambles and observations among the interesting animals of the plains. And, thanking you for your kind indulgence, I

SOURCES OF FERTILITY IN SOILS.

we calculate, from the result of ash analysis, the quantity of phosphoric acid required by a wheat crop, including grain and straw, we find the wheat demands more abundant supplies of phosphoric acid than any other plants. during the growth of the seed than at any other period, and this is the time when practical men lieve the soil to suffer the greatest exhaus-Plants in general derive their carbon and nitrogen from the atmosphere; carbon in the form of carbonic acid, nitrogen in the form receive hydrogen; and sulphur from sulphuric fluence they exert on agriculture. He states that there is a natural process at work by which liquid currents rise to the surface, and thus bring up materials that help either to maintain its fertility or modify its character." Many phenomena of agriculture and vegetation have at different times been observed, which, hitherto inexplicable, are readily explained on this theory; such, for example, as the improve-ment that takes place in fallows; and there is reason to believe that these currents materially nfluence the rotation of crops.

Take the masterly views of Schlieden, in Germany. He asserts that "the goodness of the soil depends on its inorganic constituents; so far, at least, as they are soluble in water, or walks about with an aristocratic step and a the more abundant and varied these solutions, and is a fact in favor of the argument "that in no case do the organic substances contained in which the oxygen and hydrogen of plants are derived, the principal of which is water. All of them agree that the carbon of vegetables is derived principally from the air, partly from the soil. It becomes evident, then, from the most conclusive proofs, that humas in the form in which it exists in soils does not yield the smallest nourishment to plants. The excellent advantages derived from the experiments of talented and industrious men, who have directed every effort to aid practical agriculture, justly entitle them to golden praise from mankind. Liebig has the merit of having been the first who laid before the public some views as to the source of the constituents of plants. He re-marks: "How does it happen that wheat does little companion had followed my example, and was much diverted at his sleeping posture. There he was stretched out flat on his belly, his left fore leg extended forward, and on it reclined his head; while his right fore leg was drawn ed his head; while his right fore l cause available food wanting for the develop-ment of the grains to be appropriated to the straw. In very wet seasons, especially in the absence of under drains, where there is much straw-making food and a deficiency of phosshape of tertilizers the same elements which has taken, or he will soon find the soil exhausted, so that he cannot produce the same grain.

In many of our best wheat-growing places in the West, the Lands are so much exhausted that ly in shares in the best Russian companies, and wheat crops do not pay for their labor and expense of growing. The common opinion hitherto prevalent, and still held by some, that the soil of the West cannot be exhausted, is therethe west, the labor and expense of growing. The common opinion hitherto prevalent, and still held by some, that the soil of the West cannot be exhausted, is therethough not rich, family, but has no children. fore a great mistake.

ed the soil of so much of the elements that produce it, that maize is fast taking the place of wheat, especially in the prairie districts, where the ground is less protected by the snow in winter than in others. In Canada, where the step. The young Prince, broken hearted, the choked by sobs, listened to the dreadful narra- who harass them, that they are treachero claiming, "my father! my father!" The Emne had obtained from him a solemn promise to retaliate or escape; but here their every me let death take its course without attempting to ment was indicative of innocence and timidity ter a not very violent agony, expired at twenty minutes past twelve, at noon, on the 18th of February, 1855. At the same instant Russia ed for ill-treatment afterwards.

THE ANGEL OF DEATH.

ast dog watch, the time between six and eight clock, and several of the watch who ought to flies on deck again!"

"What pigeon?" demanded half a dozen voices, "we don't see anything."

the mean time, before the sailers could make further inquiry, an order was issued from the quarter deck, to haul the main topmast staysail down. This brought the stragglers of the angel of death, who appeared to me as he has done before, like a young man with an hour-glass in his band, the sands of which had by the freshes after the rain. They believe nearly run out. He was rigged in white, and the name of Bill Graves on it."

Hardly had he finished his description, when the thrilling cry rang fore and aft, "A man overboard!" In an instant all hands were on deck, the ship hove to, and the lee-quarter boat lowered. But all in vain. Poor Bill Graves, dog watch was out. After the exchange of sorrowful regrets the watches separated, but versation; even after the watch below had turned into their hammocks, they spoke of him, and his many fine qualities as a seaman-for

The watch on deck formed a group around Tom Gray, who said that he had frequently seen the Augel of Death before. "The first onged to the British ten gun pelter Vulture, ying in the harbor of Sierra Leone. We had ever on beard, and over thirty men were way, and walked deliberately forward among hammocks. He was then dressed in a long flowing rebe of orange yellow, and in his a dozen men of it, and in his left was the same hour glass that I saw this evening. He was very beautiful, had long, curly hair, of raven "Angel of Death" seemed to blaze and burn. He looked at me as he retard a Comment, and said "not yet." Then passing from hammock to hammock, he retraced his steps toward the main hatchway, followed by the men whose names were on the seroll. A dozen men died that night. He paid us a visit almost every the control of secondary considerable and the control of secondary control of seconda

The next time I saw him was in a church in Bermuda. He entered the pulpit, and stood beside the mini ter full five minutes, looking at the hour-glass. I could see the sand distinctly running, and when it was out, the parson staggered and fell. I was the first to rush to his assistance, and as I raised him in my arms, I saw his form follow the Angel of Death down the broad aisle, and disappear. The minister died in my arms. The last time I was in New York, I saw him take a poor suffering child from its mother's arms into his own and kiss.

tersburg letter of 22d ult. says: "The great event of the day is the definitive retirement from business of the celebrated banker, Steiglitz.
The day before yesterday he sent an official letter, ordering his agent, M. Feleisen, to wind up the business of the house before the first of straw-making food and a deficiency of phosphates, the latter is taken up by the stalks and leaves, to the loss of the grain; hence, some soils may yield less grain in a wet season, but more straw, than they would do in a dryer one, other things being equal.

"Grain is carried to the cities, and the substances in the soil that made it are removed far away from the original source, and the soil is robbed of it, and but a small portion of their elements are sent to the soil from whonce they were taken." In nature's economy, nothing is lost; but when man displaces things, he should pat them back again in their own places. The wheat-grower should return to his lands in the shape of fertilizers the same elements which he shape of fertilizers the same elements which he shape of fertilizers the same elements which he bas taken, or he will soon find the soil exhaust-I need not tell you of the conjectures and com In our cultivation of wheat we have exhaust. | ments which are expressed as to the cause was nearly five hours: Ill smeat, after that near the ground is less protected by the snow it was nearly five hours: Ill smeat, after that near the ground is less protected by the snow it was nearly five hours: Ill smeat; after that near the was nearly five hours: Ill smeat; after that near the was nearly may appen down the country. I saw the ground the ground on the control of the similar is accorded by the snow picked, I should read up the scene presented was one truly may travelled acteral miles. I found myself in a wide wralley in the miles of a dones to under as that sown in the control of the state of majestic trees, composed of all most every the state of the state of the state of majestic trees, composed of all most every the state of the state of majestic trees, composed of all most every the state of the state of majestic trees, composed of all most every the state of the state of majestic trees, composed of all most every the state of the state of majestic trees, composed of all most every the state of majestic trees, composed of all most every the state of majestic trees, composed of all most every the state of majestic trees, composed of all most every the state of majestic trees, composed of all most every the state of majestic trees, composed of all most every the state of majestic trees, composed of the state of the state of majestic trees, composed of his creatures: the other centres all things in himself, with a The Gopher family. Live in Illinois and ful young doe, about half-grown. As is prenot disobey his father and his sovereign. Then lively astonishment, it was not possible to withlively astonishment, it was not possible to withhold the highest admiration from the calm and tive on his knees, and clasped his hands ex savage, and revengeful; when tormented by claiming, "my father! my father!" The Em-peror would not allow him to quit his side until display their powers and sagacity in efforts to stop it. But the instant the young Prince was out of the room, his filial love triumphed over his fidelity to his word, and he summoned the with the calmuss of despair. Their attitudes The latter arrived too late. The Emperor, af and their low moaning went to the heart. I

RATES OF ADVERTISING

Ten cents a line for the first insertion, five cents a line for each subsequent one. Ten words constitute a line. Payment in advance Money may be forwarded by mail at my risk. Notes on Eastern banks preferred. Large amounts may be remitted in drafts or certificates of deposit.

Subscribers wishing their papers changed, will give the name of the post office changed from, as well as the post office they wish it hereafter sent to.

All communications to the Era, whether on business of the paper or for publication should be addressed to

G. BAILEY, Washington, D. C.

Sir James Tennant, in his recent work on Ceylon, gives the following account of a musical fish found in a lake in that island : "On the occasion of another visit which have been on deck were below, listening to a yarn which Tom Gray was spinning.

"Catch that pigeon," said Bill Graves, interrupting the yarn, and springing from his seat, "catch that beautiful pigeon before it the locality. The report was confirmed to me in all its particulars, and one of the spots in all its particulars, and one of the spot between the pier and a rock which intersects the channel, two or three hundred vards to the earest the full, and they were described as resembling the faint sweet notes of an Æolian harp. I sent for some of the fishermen, who said they were perfectly aware of the fact, and that their fathers had always known of the ex istence of the musical sounds heard, they said at the spot alluded to, but only during the dry by the freshes after the rain. They believed them to proceed from a shell, which is known by the Tamil name of oorie coolooree cradee, (or the 'orying shell,') a name in which the sound seems to have been adopted as an echo of the sense. I sent them in search of the shell, and they returned, bringing me some living specimens of different shells, chiefly littorina and cerithium. In the evening, when the moon had risen, I took a boat, and accomby the fort gate. There was not a broath wind, nor a ripple, except that caused by the mentioned, I distinctly heard the question. They came up from the water like faint vibrations of a wine-glass, when its rim is each clear and distinct in itself; the sweetest the vibration was greatly increased in volume by conduction. The sounds varied consider ably at different points, as we moved across the lake, as if the number of the animals from which they proceeded was greatest in particular spots; and occasionally we rowed out of hearing of them altogether, until on returning to the original locality the sounds were at once

EX-GOV. ADAMS OF SOUTH CARO

The subjoined extracts are from a recept day, sometimes, taking one or more from our number, until ve had lost twenty-five men.

The next time I saw him was in a church in the Rio Grande, Beech Island, Richmond, or from its mother's arms into his own, and kiss it and disappear. The child died a few min utes afterwards, which makes me think that the proud examples of the past, and encouraging utes afterwards, which makes me think that the soul leaves the body before life is extinct. The angel was then sobed in green."

proud examples of the past, and encouraging the fearless imitation of them. The feeling which inspired the noble sentiment—we have Tom told meny other strange stories of the counted the cost, and find nothing so intolera-Angel of Death and his doings, which left a deep impression on the minds of his hearers, who believed his every word.—Boston Traveller.

He as voluntary submission to insult and ble as voluntary submission to insult and if our leaders would but rise superior to the blandishments and temptations of Wash-SOMETHING LIST A MILLIONAIRE.—A St. Pe-instruction of 22d ult. says: "The great vent of the day is the definitive retirement from our enemies to knock together with fear and official to wind less than three months rally their respective constituents in favor of a Southern Confederacy.

vember 5 we find a number of items of interest in regard to the progress of that young but vigorous colony. An enterprising and experienced boat-builder has began the construction of barges and flat boats. It is also proposed to have a steamboat, owned by Ceredo capitalists, to run between Cincinnati and Ceredo. Petitions have been extensively circulated through the county for the introduction of the free-school system. This is eminently characteristic. Where New England men and women go, the